I am new to android programming and I have been trying to get my application to run on my device and I am getting some issues. It seems I must have the Google Play Services installed first before running my app. I do not have any idea what this means and it is also in red with a big warning saying: The following classes could not be found: -Google Play GamesServices, Google(R) Play Games which does not really make sense to me. Is it something I have to do before I start a new application or can I just run it like normal and start testing it? Just to clarify: the application is working fine, it is just that the warning is there, which is making me feel a bit clueless. A: you can download the Play Games Application directly from Google but it's not necessary to do You can use the tools from SDK Manager SDK Manager->Extras->Google Play(at the bottom) In this case you'll download a.aar file A: The issues: You are using an emulator, which doesn't have the Google Play Services. The warnings: The Google Play Services helpfully tells you where to get the right version (because the emulator version is out of date). The missing classes: These are SDK tools, available in the SDK Manager in your SDK. I recommend you install the Google Play Games SDK (which is pre-installed) and then install the other tools like Google Maps.
