“For the first time in a FIFA game, the player moves, controls and accelerates the ball in-game using real players' movement and speed,” said Alex Miller, Senior Producer. “This builds upon the best FIFA technology out there and allows us to create matches with even more life.” I’m proud to announce that I will be joining the EA team later this year to work with them on an exciting new project. I’ve got to say, I’m very excited to dive into the deep end of our newest project and help set it on the right path. I’m looking forward to joining the team at EA and to diving deep into a new feature set and game style that we haven’t seen in FIFA before. Thank you for all of your support on the way. I’m looking forward to working with all of you on this new amazing project I’ll be a part of. Sincerely, Todd Gleason His newly-announced role with EA is unknown, but he's certainly set to join the FIFA team in some capacity. Most fans are hoping that he'll spend more time in his role as overall FIFA Lead Designer, as recent interviews have indicated that he's spent more of his time in a behind-the-scenes role in recent months. Maybe you had your fill of the two-hour previews. Maybe you just want to watch TV another time. Whatever the case may be, you can tune into the 2015-2016 basketball season over at ESPN, and you will see a live stream of every postseason game. However, that is not the only thing that is available at ESPN, as it will also feature daily recaps of every game that happens, as well as many other different updates about the conference tournaments. This is a big deal for many basketball fans, especially those of you who are under 23 years of age. The NCAA basketball playoffs are a big deal, and many people are excited to tune in and watch not only the games, but also for all of the talk that goes along with it. You will see things like the matchups, early projections for who is going to be playing, and which team is going to be the champion. All of these things are covered on ESPN, so that means that you don’t have to worry about missing out on anything if you do not want to. Many people
